Mount Allison Record

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY THE
MOUNT ALLISON ALUMNI AND ALUMNAE SOCIETIES
SUBSCRIPTION PRICE 25 CENTS PER YEAR

VOL. I SACKVILLE, N. B., FEBRUARY, 1916 NO. 3

We devote this issue of the Record to our men and women in the war because of the great interest of Mount Allison people in general in the contribution of their college to the cause which we support. No matter how comprehensive or how circumscribed may be the control of a college, its duties are nation wide and its value is in direct ratio to its service to the state. That service is rendered through its students both in peace and in war, in the contribution which they make toward the shaping of the ideals of its peoples. That in this way Mount Allison has done her part, the names of her sons and daughters prominent in every walk of life bears ample testimony. Today, in a more concrete and visible way her sons and daughters, moved by the call of duty have gone forth to serve the nation even unto death and by their service they have honored not only themselves but their college as well.

We shall fail indeed in our appreciation of their service if we do not honor in an adequate and dignified way, those sons who in the pursuit of duty have given their lives on the battle fields of Flanders. There are many ways in which it might be done and we would welcome suggestions in these pages. Our mind recalls one such splendid memorial, a great hall with its beautiful stained windows and its tablets to these fallen in battle, a hall devoted to the daily use of thousands of students to whom it is a constant reminder of those virtues most becoming in man. One of our most pressing needs at Mount Allison today is a library to house the really splendid collections of books we already have, and at the same time adequately endowed with funds to perform the services needed. Such a Library would be a splendid Memorial of our fallen heroes.

The following clipping from the Vancouver News Advertiser by "Lucien" who by the way is S. D. Scott, '90, LL. D., '13 the Editor of that paper, fittingly bridges the past and the present.

"Lucian," in an article on the late Sir F. W. Borden, says:

Among the militia officers of the early days of Sir Fred's ministry was his only son, Lieut. Harold Borden, B. A., a medical student of McGill when the Boer war began. My mind goes back to a gathering in a public hall with a group of volunteers marshalled on the platform. These were days when a party of thirty or forty was considered a fair war contibution for a city. Lieut. Borden was in charge, a tall, strong youth who looked his part. In answer to many speeches, about all he said was that he would not send any of his men where he would not go himself. As a matter of fact he went many places where he would not send his men.

They were away and the Mounted Rifles were seen in contact with the Boers. Lieut. Borden was "mentioned" for swimming a river under fire. Perhaps he would find it no worse to swim a veldt river in these circumstances than to breast the Habitant at home with the tide running. Then he was mentioned again for bravery. Soon came a day when he and his company were lying among the rocks on a ridge, with concealed Boer snipers on the slope watching for a mark. Suddenly, Ralph Markham, from the shelter of his own rock, saw the lieutenant rise and stand for a second. Then he fell, shot through the breast. Perhaps he rose to give some signal, perhaps to see whether the time had come for a charge. When Markham had crawled over to the spot Lieut. Borden was dead.

Fifteen years later, his comrade, Captain Markham, fell bravely fighting on another field. One fills a soldier's grave on the veldt, the other in the Flemish meadow, both realizing the truth "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori."

Then I recall another day when a gathering in the hall of Borden's modest college, which happens to be my own, saw a tablet unveiled to the memory of the young graduate, the first alumnus of that university to fall in battle. Sir Fred was present, and much that was kindly and comforting was spoken. If there were room for them many tablets migh be placed on the walls of that university today for alumni who have fallen in this greater war.

Even at the expense of a good deal of space we are publishing the names in alphabetical order of all those men and women whom we know to be in the Army in one service or another with their addresses when known. A perusal of the list will show that the addresses of some are still unknown to us and we shall be greatly obliged if any of our readers will furnish us with this information. We may, too, have included some who have not enlisted. that fact we would like to know. And most especially are we anxious to hear of new names which we can add to the list. Mount Allison's contributions to the war will in the future be one of her priceless traditions and we urge our readers to send us the names of all former students of the University, Academy or Ladies College who are serving today, whose names are not in this list, with as full information as possible concerning their Army history.

About three hundred and fourty men so far are listed with nine nurses. In addition to these twenty men are known to have been rejected making a total of about three hundred and seventy who have offered their services for King and Country. This is no mean contribution and as far as our information goes it is a proportion not exceeded by any college in Canada.

Of undergraduates who have enlisted the proportion is large. Of the male students of 1915—'16 almost exactly seventy per cent are now in the army. Today we have less than sixty men enrolled and of these the great majority are Freshmen. Of the number only twenty four are nineteen years of age or older and of these probably not one half are physically fit for service.

If only one year is found after a name it signifies that the man graduated from the University in that year. If here for a term of years without graduation, the dates are given. Ac. is put after men who have been at the Academy but not at the Univ. An omission of dates intimates that they are unknown.
